REJECT MEDIATION WITH HUERTA WING

Constitutionalist Representatives In Washington Refuse To Discuss All Rumors

Washington, July 8.—Border dispatches stating that the constitutionalists will not accept the institution of the mediators for informal peace conferences with representatives of General Huerta were confirmed partially here tonight by persons in close touch with General Carranza. Rafael Zubaran and Luis Cabrera, the two most prominent representatives of Carranza, had nothing to say on the subject, but word that a majority of the constitutionalist generals, to whom the plan for conferences had been submitted, had disapproved it came from well informed sources.

Minister Naon of Argentina, the only one of the mediators in Washington, read the dispatches with evident surprise. He indicated that the mediators will take no action until the attitude of the constitutionalists is conveyed to them officially.

Secretary Bryan, on behalf of the Washington government, said it would be improper for him to discuss the situation in advance of the arrival of Carranza's formal answer to the pending proposal for peace conferences.

DRYS ORGANIZE FOR UNIT LAW

Sedalia, Mo., July 7.—The Missouri Anti-Saloon League and the Women's Christian Temperance Union have called a meeting for July 13 in Sedalia to perfect an organization with a view to working up interest in every precinct of the state and informing the voters on the County Unit Law. Every county in the state is to be organized in the hope of ratifying the County Unit Law at the election in November.

SECOND BROOD OF THE ARMY WORM COMING

It is nearly time for the second brood of the army worm to appear. Millions of the first brood escaped destruction and when full fed, entered the ground and changed to the chrysalis stage from which the moths are now emerging in countless numbers.

The army worm moth is light brown in color and nearly an inch long. When it rests, it folds its wings so as to extend lengthwise of the body. During the day these moths collect under leaves, in wheat shocks, and other protected places away from the bright sunlight. At sundown they begin to fly about. After dark they are attracted to lights in great numbers. These moths will lay their eggs on grasses and other green crops and as soon as the eggs hatch the young caterpillars of the second swarm of army worms will begin to feed on and destroy the crops.

The Missouri College of Agriculture does not regard the situation as especially serious because, while there are immense swarms of moths now laying their eggs, there are also equally great numbers of insects which are parasitic on caterpillars of the army worm type waiting to destroy the young worms when they hatch. These insects in former years have successfully controlled the second and third broods of army worms by killing them off in enormous numbers. Usually, however, the second brood has not been as large as it promises to be this year judging by the number of moths. So we may expect trouble in certain restricted regions. The weather plays an important part in army worm control. Cool weather is favorable for the army worm and hot weather is unfavorable.

It is desirable that farmers in the regions where the army worm was so destructive early in the season should be on the look

COLORLED WOMAN KILLED BY TRAIN

Jennie Koker, of Springfield, Falls Asleep on Railroad Track. Instantly Killed by Passenger Train

Jennie Koker, a colored woman about 30 years old, of Springfield, was instantly killed by passenger train No. 6 from the south, Wednesday night before midnight.

The news of the accident was brought to Monett by Carl De Knight, a young colored man, who was her companion. Investigation was made by the officials and the body of the woman was brought to King & Hutcheson's undertaking rooms.

An inquest was held, Thursday morning, at the city hall by Coroner James King.

DeKnight was closely questioned and it was not found that there were any suspicious circumstances concerning the woman's death.

The man said that he boarded with the mother of Jennie Koker in Springfield. He was out of work and decided to go to Van Buren, Ark., to secure employment. Jennie was determined to go with him but he slipped away and walked to Nichols Junction. There he found the woman on a freight train and came on with her to Monett.

Reaching Monett he tried to persuade her to return home, which she refused to do. They wandered around town and were advised to leave the city as negroes were not allowed here. They then went down the south track and stopped near Ami Cuendet's place. The young negro came back to town and made some purchases and returned to the woman. He said that as night came on Jennie sat down on the track. He told her it was dangerous but she said she would hear a train before it came. Both evidently fell asleep and he said he was awakened by a rock striking him on the forehead. A train was passing and he could see nothing of his companion. A search found her lying in a ditch some distance from the track, dead.

DeKnight hurried to town and seeing a colored employe at the station he told him of the tragedy. He was advised to see the officers, which he did.

The inquest resulted in the finding that the woman was killed by being struck by a train.

Relatives in Springfield were notified and the body will be taken there tonight. The deceased carried a small insurance.

Andrew Carnegie

Andrew Carnegie's words concerning saving should carry weight. He has tried it and he knows. He says:

"For every dollar you can produce as a result of hard earned savings, Midas, in search of a partner, will lend on credit a thousand. It is not capital that men require; it is the man who has proved that he has the business habits that create Capital."
